Project Planning Process

OVERVIEW

This workshop equips professionals with the knowledge and tools to structure and lead projects with clarity, foresight, and accountability. It promotes a disciplined yet flexible approach to project design that helps minimize risks, secure buy-in, and ensure results that matter. Real-life case studies and simulation exercises will give attendees hands-on experience in drafting project charters, work breakdown structures (WBS), and Gantt charts, while learning to align deliverables with strategic objectives and constraints.

Audience

Designed for project managers, coordinators, development practitioners, NGO and public sector staff, startup teams, and professionals involved in planning or implementing multi-phase initiatives. No prior certification in project management is required—just a need for structure and impact.

Instructors

Led by certified project management professionals, strategic planners, development consultants, and operations experts with hands-on experience designing and leading local and international projects. Instructors combine methodological rigor with real-world practicality.
